To defer your enrollment and scholarship (if applicable) without reapplying, you must adhere to the following:

1. Be admitted as a regular day school, degree-seeking student at Brigham Young University.
2. If you are a current BYU student, enter the Missionary Training Center (MTC) before the end of next semester (fall or winter) following your last day school enrollment. If you are deferring admission before attending BYU day school, you should enter the MTC during the semester to which you have been admitted.
3. Do not attend or enroll at any college or university between leaving and returning to BYU.
4. Must not be dismissed from BYU.
5. Complete a full mission and receive an ecclesiastical endorsement from your mission president. Failure to complete the mission for any reason (i.e., medical, etc.) will void the deferment form and require a re-application to BYU.
6. BYU will NOT defer spring/summer scholarships

NOTE: A missionary deferment and continuing student deferment may not be taken back-to-back (consecutive semesters). Following your mission, you must enroll at Brigham Young University within a given time period, as noted below.

Return from mission	Enroll no later than

May–September	Winter semester

If you are registered for a future semester or term but will be unable to attend due to your mission, you are responsible for discontinuing from the courses prior to leaving the university.
